MISSION

The International Society for Ethical Psychology and Psychiatry, Inc. is a 501(c)(3) non-profit volunteer organization of mental health professionals, physicians, educators, ex-patients and survivors of the mental health system, and their families.

Our mission is to use the standards of scientific inquiry and critical reasoning to address the ethics of psychology and psychiatry. We strive to educate our members and the public about the nature of “mental illness”, the de-humanizing and coercive aspects of many forms of mental health treatment, and the alternative humane ways of helping people who struggle with very difficult life issues. We believe this is essential since one of the most cherished principles in the mental health field is “informed consent”. That means you should be fully and honestly informed about the problems you are experiencing, and the full risks and benefits of any treatment, before making truly voluntary decisions about your care. Our goal is to fully inform you.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE

The ISEPP Annual Conference serves as unique thought provoking forum to exchange critical ideas about the impact of contemporary mental health ideologies on personal and community values, and to disseminate models of therapeutic intervention that disavow all coercion and the compromise of ethics, rationality and scientific principles to examine the science and art of helping children and adults who are in emotional distress without the compromise of ethics, rationality or scientific principles.

Participants include mental health professionals, academics, and researchers from the educational and academic communities, the medical and social sciences, mental health lawyers, law professors and law students, psychiatric survivors and members of the public. Our attendees have reported that they find the annual conferences to be the most stimulating, useful, intellectually challenging, and friendly meetings they ever attend. Our presenters include some of the most esteemed and courageous members of their respective fields. They have taken principled, rational stands based on sound science to encourage the practice of effective and humane treatment.
